How to Use This Guide

This guide is the facilitator companion to the 10-slide frontline leader cascade deck. It preserves the enterprise message while helping frontline leader leaders connect the imperatives to local work, invite team input, and close with a specific commitment.

THE LEADER'S JOB Do not simply read the slides. Explain the approved message, connect it to the team's work and decisions, invite a brief two-way conversation, and name what people should see next.

Before the conversation

- Review the slides and speaker notes. Select two or three current examples that are appropriate for this audience.
- Choose examples from patient care, service, teamwork, physician partnership, operational improvement or responsible growth as relevant to the group.
- Select reflection questions in advance. For a 15-minute conversation, use one or two. For 20 minutes, use up to four.
- Prepare one commitment within your role. State it on Slide 9 and reinforce it on Slide 10.

During the conversation

Move	Purpose	Facilitator action	Participant experience
FRAME	Slides 1–2	Establish mission, context and why the imperatives matter.	Understand why this matters now.
EXPLAIN	Slides 3–7	Give the approved meaning for all four imperatives.	Hear a consistent enterprise story.
CONNECT	Slides 4–8	Link the imperatives to local work, decisions and behaviors.	Contribute examples and opportunities.
COMMIT	Slides 9–10	Clarify what leaders will model and what happens next.	Know what will be visible next.

KEEP THE CORE MESSAGE Use the approved slide language as the enterprise anchor. Localize examples, questions and commitments without changing the meaning of the four imperatives.

Facilitator Guidance: The CONNECT Portion

CONNECT links the enterprise imperatives to the work people see each day. Keep the discussion focused on choices and observable actions. Help frontline teams identify what they can influence in daily work and what needs leader follow-up.

What CONNECT should accomplish

- Show where an imperative already appears in priorities, decisions, behaviors or outcomes.
- Surface one practical opportunity to strengthen alignment in the team's work.
- Invite staff to share relevant examples and perspectives without requiring everyone to speak.
- Translate the conversation into a leader commitment, team action or named follow-up.

Use the 4-step conversation sequence

1. OFFER A LOCAL EXAMPLE	"For our team, this means..." Connect one imperative to a recognizable task, decision, behavior or outcome.
2. ASK ONE FOCUSED QUESTION	Use a displayed reflection question or a specific team prompt. Ask one question at a time.
3. LISTEN AND SYNTHESIZE	Invite two or three responses. Reflect the common theme: "What I am hearing is..."
4. CLOSE THE LOOP	Say what will happen next, what the leader will reinforce, or what needs follow-up.

Interactive conversation norms

- Keep discussion grounded in work and observable behaviors.
- Acknowledge comments without debating or solving every issue in the moment.
- Capture follow-up items and identify an owner or next step when appropriate.
- Use the specific prompts in this guide instead of broad questions such as "Any thoughts?"

If the room is quiet

- Offer a concrete example, then ask: "Where else do you see this in our work?"
- Give 30 seconds to think and 60 seconds to discuss with a partner, then invite two responses.
- Offer a choice: "Which lens matters most to us right now: priorities, decisions, behaviors or outcomes?"

CONNECT + INTERACTIVE CONVERSATION	Ask: “What is one action you will take to bring the imperatives to life?” Use a verbal response, chat or written reflection based on group size.
